

DOFA : MICROINSTALLATIONS NO STUDIO

WROCLAW
POLAND

2014

The microinstallations is a series of small interventions in urban space to restore the forgotten city, neglected locations. With minimalistic design (almost no design) and with the micro financial resources bring to the revitalization of holes in the urban net.

Thinking about the whole city, based on needs analysis and exploration of rifts in urban planning NO Studio prepared for Wroclaw a series of microinstallations that they are gradually realised. First of series was realized during Dofa (Lowersilesian Festival of Architecture). Close to the historic bridge, placed on the forgotten concrete stairs leading to the river. Simple half-chairs, half-sunbed restore this location for the public.

The project thinks the whole city based on needs analysis and exploration of rifts in urban planning.
